The fee will include the following rights:

- Unlimited transmissions on the specified one channel (including digital channels e.g. BBC4)
- Digital broadcast and streaming rights – (for the time period licenced for the specific programme including BBC iPlayer and other ‘on demand’ services).
- Promotional use referring to trailers shown prior to the transmission of the programme. They would normally consist of a short montage of sequences which, on occasion, may feature an archive image.

For your clarification: upon download of the programme, it can remain on the users’ hardware until first accessed or 13 weeks from download, whichever is sooner, then the user has 60 days to view the programme after which the programme expires.

Product Licencing

We are delighted to discuss any licencing enquiries and can negotiate contracts for commercial licenses for and upfront fee, please see the fees charges above or on a royalty basis.

Our rates for royalties, should be payable every quarter unless negotiated otherwise.

If you would like to discuss any licencing opportunities with National Museums Northern Ireland please contact on +44 (0)28 9039 5091 or picture.library@nmni.com
